Statement

I know Mr. Oliver Söhnngen approximately since he was 16 years old. I have met him repeatedly through my different professional functions.

- as teacher in the field of music at the Alexander-Von-Humboldt-Gymnasium in Konstanz, at which he took part in the choir and the Instrumental-AG and from which he also graduated High School in 1984.

- as Music Director at the University of Konstanz and conductor of the university orchestra, in which Oliver Söhnngen occasionally participated as double bass player during his studies at the pedagogic/educational college and

- as Artistic Director and conductor of the Chamber Opera in Konstanz, in which Oliver Söhnngen participated first as double bass player, and later - during his vocal studies in the USA - as singer in the choir and at last also as soloist singer of some smaller opera roles.

During such varied musical contacts and including the customary student-teacher relationship, beyond that he and I developed, over a time period of about 15 years a relationship in which it was possible for me through private conversations and observations to create a picture of a complex, many times headstrong and inconsistently argumentative but artistically multiple talented (not just musically but also in the field of Fine Arts), open minded young man. He was for a long time on a quest, both artistically, professionally and personally for a secure hold and his own way to achieve this.

Particularly in his musical activities Oliver had shown early on as a student a maturity far beyond his age and a keen interest for a musical education.

He devoted himself to his studies first at the Pedagogic University, with the main emphasis on music, and especially later in the USA with his vocal studies as far as I remember with increasing consistency and intensity. He brought his developing professional capability and enthusiastic participation to the projects lead by me in a reliable and professional manner. During and apart from the rehearsals he looked eagerly for a dialog with me both musically and personally in a very pleasant manner. The social contacts with the other participants were less pronounced. Perhaps because of the experiences from his early youth.

I learned about him becoming a father in his early youth when he was still a student incidentally, I had the impression he faced the situation very responsibly and sought to maintain contact with his child in Germany even from afar in the USA. (Several of the bookings in the chamber opera Konstanz that I directed took place because he wished to earn enough money for a visit of his family.)

I had the impression that because of the difficult relationship with his father, (who raised him alone for a time) his development as a human being was made harder. It was my impression that he was dependent on him both emotionally and somewhat intellectually for a long time. His fathers strange behavior and ideas were characterized by an often preposterous religious devotion. This was a heavy burden on Oliver and forced him to try to find excuses occasionally when facing his peers.

(One example: During an opera production in which Oliver participated, a stranger repeatedly and routinely ripped down dozens of posters that advertised this opera. Eventually a cast member was able to catch the culprit and with help of the summoned police identified him as Oliver's father. Oliver's explanation for this behavior was that his father in his religious zeal felt that the title "The Sinful Angels" was blasphemous and had tried to forbid his son, who was an adult at this point, to participate in this production.)

Over the years my wife and myself during personal meetings witnessed Oliver growing into a well-balanced, stable, polite and gentle young man. We both regretted that the relationship with him during the last years had suffered because of the geographical distance.

Re: Mitigation of Sentence Regarding Oliver Sohngen

Dear Judge Kaplan:

By way of introduction, I am an practicing attorney in Cleveland, Ohio, but more relevant to the subject matter, I am the Founding Director of the Cleveland Public Theatre (CPT), a thriving non-profit theatre located in Cleveland. I served as its Executive and Artistic Director from its inception in 1982 until 2004. I am also married and a father of 3 (ages 18 to 21).

I met Oliver Sohngen through my work at CPT in the early 1990's. When I consider his multi-skilled contribution to our work, I immediately think of the expression "Renaissance Man." He is a highly developed artist, unique in his sophisticated skills in both the visual arts (terrific set designer) and audio (very accomplished music director and composer). He contributed award-winning artistic support of many of CPT's most acclaimed productions throughout the 1990s.

In addition to a professional relationship, Oliver was a friend and, technically, a "tenant." At the time my family and I lived on the third floor of a warehouse in (now) trendy area of Cleveland, Ohio City. Oliver lived in an efficiency apartment (formerly an office) on the first floor. I had no compunction leaving Oliver when I was out of town, times during which he would house-sit, pet-sit and occasionally baby-sit. At no time did I suspect any untoward behavior and Oliver always conducted himself with honor and integrity, both professionally and personally.

I am peripherally aware of the criminal behavior involving Oliver Sohngen and, of course, am shocked and disappointed. However, please note that while in Cleveland, Oliver maintained the highest reputation and served his artistic projects and the community of artists with great skill and devotion.

Thank you for considering this aspect of Oliver Sohngen's past and personality.

Yours truly,

James Levin

To the Honorable Judge Kaplan:

Re: Oliver Sohngen

I was a theater critic in Cleveland Ohio for many years and reviewed several hundred productions. Cleveland is not New York and anyone with real talent, creativity, and skill for innovation soon rises to notice in this town.

While the technical side of theater is not my forte, Oliver Sohngen's ingenious creations could not miss a thumb through the program to discover who was creating such imaginative work. This work was often in theaters where the entire budget for the production was the cost of a couple of wigs at the larger venues.

Eventually I had the experience of meeting the (at that time) young designer through my friend Jan Bruml, a local director. Oliver and I were on friendly terms throughout most of his time in Cleveland and I found him amusing, likable, and amazingly creative and inventive.

I told him what we in Cleveland tell all our young talent, "You ought to go to New York." Several years later he found his way there and managed successfully.

I do not have any idea why he did what he did, but hearing he has gotten himself into difficulties has distressed me. He is a kind, thoughtful, creative individual and from what I recall rather a workaholic. His friends here are saddened greatly and hate to see such a creative light be snuffed out.

Sincerely,

To the Honorable Judge Kaplan:

This letter concerns Oliver Sohngen who I met while he was studying voice at Cleveland Music Institute. Our friendship began as we wrote songs together for a band with which he was performing in venues around Cleveland. This would have been in the late eighties or early nineties.

I was working in the theater and teaching at that time and have since retired. Oliver eventually rented a room in my home and lived and worked with my son and I in the theater for several years.

He has an extraordinary talent for set design and the three of us became an award winning team. The opera, Der Kaiser From Atlantis, that Oliver designed and also sang the tenor role, was very successful and again was a real team effort.

He went on to become a designer and worked for several of the local theaters including the Children's Playwriting Festival. At the same time he continued with his music at St. Paul's Episcopal Church singing in the choir and for other occasions.

His work might be considered genius. It certainly is exceptionally creative. For example, he has also designed and built a bass guitar which wraps about the body.

Oliver was always almost hyper sensitive and like other creative people he lives more in his mind than in the world. He would find himself surprised when he banged up against the real world. I almost felt like he needed protection so that he could just get about doing what he does best - being creative.

I have met his wife and children, know of his work with the music school, and know he continues to design. This event in his life has saddened me.

Thank you for taking the time to read and consider this letter. I am sure he is already an awakened and sadder but wiser man.

Sincerely,

November 13th, 2017

Honorable Judge Kaplan,

My name is Demetrios John Tsinopoulos I am 34 years old, and I am a professional opera singer but also am employed for a real estate brokerage. I first met Mr. Sohngen sometime in fall of 2015. I was using one of his studios at the Long Island City Academy of Music for a coaching, with a pianist who was employed by him, but was also my friend. I had heard of him before that encounter, from this friend of mine, but also was aware, of his involvement in Operas as an associate of his, was also my teacher in the past.

Upon our first encounter and conversation regarding my performance and singing in general, I soon got the impression that I was talking to an extremely intelligent, but also a very kind person, as he listened to me and spoke with what seemed like genuine interest and compassion.

Following that initial encounter and some advice that he provided, I was intrigued, and inquired on whether we could meet and discuss singing technique further. He agreed and soon I began taking lessons with him.

From that point on we would meet 1 to 2 times a week usually during the evenings and slowly we began establishing a teacher student relationship, we also established a friendly one, as he was not the usual voice teacher, giving you 60 minutes and sending you home, but rather our lessons were more like sessions, of teaching and conversing on singing but also music and the arts. Often sessions of 2 and even 3 hours, even though he only charged me for one and a low rate at that. (comparably to what most charge in NYC)

My girlfriend and I decided to invite him over for Christmas of 2015 and he joined us for a wonderful celebration, which further brought us closer.

Within the next year and a half of our friendship we came to feel each other as family, and maybe I came to see somewhat of a father figure in him, and him that of maybe a son in me.

To the most the first aspect of Mr. Sohngen that stands out would be his unquestionable artistic prowess. With his academic excellence, years of professional stage experience, and finally countless students that have entered the highest educational institutions thanks to his teaching, it is easy to see how this could be deduced. However, for me, this is only part of what constitutes Mr. Sohngen's qualities.

The trait that he carries which is equally if not more so extraordinary, definitely is his generosity. In our time and day, a person who will place the student's best interest over the almighty dollar is definitely a rare occurrence. I can speak about this through personal experience, however I know of many others who experienced similar behavior. Mr. Sohngen time and time again, let me pay at a later date, or sometimes not pay at all. He knew of my financial struggles and always told me to come and learn, money comes later. He was more interested in my success than his own financial benefit. He was always there when I had a question, always supportive and compassionate. I did succeed, and I have him to thank. It was a known fact that he ran his academy with a very loose financial model. People could pay when they had money, and were not subject to non stop pressure or refusal to teach their children as is practiced by so many.

He was a teacher first, an educator, and then an owner. Actions that probably resulted with him being the recipient of the shorter end of the stick in numerous occasions, however that did not shift his stance at all, that education comes above all.

At this point, I find it necessary to express that I am aware of the crimes Mr. Sohngen is being sentenced for, it is very saddening, however I can only speak of the man I met, and have known for these 2 years.

I would like to thank you, your Honor, for taking the time to read my letter, and I apologize for the length however even at this extent, I feel that a lot has been excluded.

I feel privileged to have met Mr. Sohngen, as a teacher, an artist, a friend, and as family, and I believe that any person who would have the opportunity to meet this wonderful man, would quickly see why.

Sincerely,

Demetrios John Tsinopoulos

Dear Judge Kaplan,

This the hardest thing I have ever had to write.

I have known Oliver for over 15 years and we have one biological child together— a very caring, loving, 11 year old girl, who thinks that her Dad is the best person in the whole world. Oliver has been a wonderful father to her and has tried everything that he could to make her life better than his own upbringing.

He has also been a father to my son, Aaron, when Aaron's biological dad was not capable of being a part of his life because of mental illness and drug-usage. Aaron is now eighteen and Oliver has supported him in every possible way. For that, I am so thankful to Oliver.

Oliver has supported me throughout our life together and he has been a great friend to me. When I became depressed after my son couldn't be with me in America, he took care of me. He paid all the bills, even though he was working as a waiter at the time, and he was always there for me. He encouraged me to not give up and keep trying to get my son with me. He helped me to sponsor my son and now my son is an American citizen.

He encouraged me to go to college and achieve my dreams. No one else believed in me the way that he did, not even my own parents or other family. My upbringing was abusive- verbally, emotionally, sexually and I was also bullied. This made me think that I incapable and undeserving of success. But Oliver told me that I was worthy and capable constantly and I eventually believed him.

I went to college and graduated with a degree. I am thankful to Oliver for his encouragement and support of my education. His amazing intelligence, creativity and ambition have been an inspiration to me.

Oliver always said that the most precious thing in his life is our daughter and she is so proud of her dad. He has been ever-present and involved in her life from the very beginning. He went to every doctor's appointment and he was there for every birthday. Every year, we did special, creative birthday parties for her on a shoestring budget with items we found or recycled. He built props to suit the theme of her parties and sang songs to celebrate her.

Oliver allowed me to be a stay-at-home mom for the first two years of our daughter's life, while he took on many jobs to support his family. He taught both of our kids music and he elevated them in the community and really bolstered their confidence and their sense of identity.

Oliver was also a very driven professionally. This allowed him to build from the ground up a very successful and thriving music school over a short span of time. He literally built the walls of the school and installed the doors and almost everything else by himself. The school grew and received many accolades and he was well-respected. The teachers who taught there were hand-picked by him and were the most esteemed. The institution was like a second home to my kids.

In our personal lives however, neither Oliver or I were perfect people. We made our mistakes and we eventually realized that a romantic coupling was not the best idea for us, so we separated in 2013, but we remained fully committed to being the best parents we could to our kids.

This summer, when I found out about the charges that had been lodged against Oliver, I was in disbelief and I still have not gotten over the shock. I have been physically ill by the stress. I take medication and I go to therapy every week because it's like a bomb went off in my life and I am left to pick up the pieces.

It's been really hard because after Oliver was arrested, not many people wanted to continue on at the school because of all the negative publicity surrounding Oliver. This led to the business closing. Oliver was the main provider for our family and now all of the responsibility rests solely on me. I am scared but I can't give up.

Our daughter knows that her dad has been accused of a crime but she doesn't know the details. I have been taking her to a therapist since this all happened because I don't want her to be too traumatized and damaged by this whole situation. I believe that the mind can be damaged by life just like the body and we have to take care of it. She has been bullied by kids who keep asking her, "Where is your dad?" or "Is your dad in jail?" But we have dealt with it and she misses her dad dearly and everything that they did together. She thinks that her dad is the best person on this Earth. He used to teach her to sing and she doesn't want to sing anymore because he isn't around.

I wish you could meet our daughter and hear her talk about her Dad. If you could talk to her, you would understand better what a special bond and relationship they have. She is a great singer, instrumentalist, performer and artist because of her Dad's support. In spite of me having my moments where I felt like Oliver was not present enough or as giving as he should have been, our daughter and son think that their Dad is a wonderful person because he has been kind, generous, loving and patient with them.

Me, as a woman, who wanted a man to be concept of a partner, I found him to be inadequate. As a broken person that Life had beaten down from a tender age, I found him to be a constant source of strength.

As a friend he was reliable, honest and encouraging.

As a provider he was capable and dependable.

As a human I've found him to be kind, giving, sensitive and considerate.

I have talked to him, written to him, visited him, I have contacted his friends and family and asked them to support him and more. I do this because I believe that people can change and do better once they are shown the error of their ways.

I have seen Oliver give money to homeless people, supported charitable organizations and written numerous letters to help his students to succeed.

Oliver's other great achievement is his music. His voice will reach deep into your soul and shake your emotions. His love for music beats alongside his heart. While in prison he has been organizing choirs and bringing hope and joy to the men who are at their lowest points. He has also been drawing pictures of them with their families from pictures that their families send them. He however cannot have a picture of his own daughter because of the crime he has plead guilty to.

I support Oliver having another chance as a free man in this world. I know that he will never be truly free again because he has to carry the scourge of his crime with him wherever he will go and that, in itself is one of the worse punishments. But that will be a consequence of his egregious actions.

I am still angry at Oliver but I believe him when he says that has never harmed our kids nor any kids at his school and that he is sorry. I also understand consequences and I want him to understand them as well. I want him to do the work that it takes to fix whatever became broken in his life and that led him to make those poor choices. I beg you to have mercy on him and give him another chance to be a better person. I believe that Oliver is a GOOD person who has made terrible mistakes.

Oliver has a family-- in Germany and America-- who love him and who stand by him and who are committed to his recovery. That is an asset to someone in his position and that will also help with his recovery.

I believe that with the right therapy and support Oliver can somehow turn this around and make up for the ill he has done. Please allow Oliver to receive treatment for his misdeeds and give him a chance to be a part of his daughter's life.

Oliver is missed and he is loved. He is apologetic and wishes to make amends. Please grant him the opportunity to make up for his errors.

Sincerely,

To the Honorable Judge Kaplan:

My name is Rosa Rodriguez. I am an actress and a singer living in Queens, New York. I work in theater, commercials, and independent film. I have been happily married for over 5 years and my husband is also an actor and a filmmaker. We have no children yet, but plan to start trying in a couple of year. I met Oliver in 2007 when I went to his studio in Queens, which was in a room in his apartment at that time, for my very first singing lesson. At the time, I was a Civil Engineer going to NYU for a Master in Construction Management, and building a career in construction; but my lifelong love for the arts pushed me to try this. It was an illuminating session in which I got a few useful exercises and tips from Oliver. I didn't go back for more lessons until a year later. From then on I saw him once every week for a few months at a time, taking breaks in between periods to re-charge financially. Artistic education can be expensive in New York, but Oliver was always quite flexible with payments and gave me great deals. Throughout the following years, Oliver became not only my instructor and mentor, but also a dear friend: we lived across the street from each other for a few years; he and his family were some of the few friends invited to my intimate destination wedding in Rhode Island; my husband helped him paint his school in Long Island City, when it first started; etc.

I believe Oliver is a gifted individual. He is big and passionate in everything he does, and he has genuine interest in discovering and developing people's vocal talents. He has a knack for helping his students find their voice. His ways of teaching are challenging and encouraging at the same time. I credit him with helping me find my voice and gain confidence in my abilities as a singer. He was one of the main forces behind my growth and transition from my previous career path into working in the arts. He was always very vocal when it came to his belief in my abilities and potential, and introduced me to singers and styles of music that ended up shaping the performer I am today. He is a generous and caring individual, and I have seen him help many others in a similar way. I always thought Oliver was one of the most selfless individuals I knew. Whenever I had a chance to spend some time with him, he went on and on about the achievements of this or that student, and the pride and joy he got out of it was palpable and a beautiful thing to watch.

I believe Oliver has made some terrible mistakes, and I agree that there needs to be serious consequences, reflection, and change on his part. I do not believe, however, that those mistakes negate the tremendous amount of goodness in him. I pray that he gets the opportunity to rehabilitate and reintegrate into society after serving a fair sentence. I have faith in his potential to face his issues and heal.

Thank you so much for reading this note.

My name is Patrick Avella. I am a professional filmmaker and owner of Room 1209 Productions, a boutique production company based in Long Island City, Queens. I have been happily married for the past 5 year. I have known Oliver for almost 10 years. We met while building a set at The Acting Studio, Inc., where I studied acting and he was the set designer. There were times in our relationship when we would spend long hours together. I can clearly remember spending an overnight stretch of 24-plus hours building a set from Sunday afternoon, working through the evening, and loading into a theatre on Monday morning. He is a hardworking, talented set designer. Being that Oliver was also my neighbor, we lived across the street from each other, our relationship began as professionals but grew very quickly into a personal friendship. His boisterous personality blended well with my native New Yorker blue collar attitude. I would watch his cat while he was away and we would often see each other in the neighborhood and stop to chat.

Oliver is one of the most selfless people I have ever met. His energetic motivation for others to succeed in the arts was a sight to see. He would motivate and charge a person to follow their dreams with his kind words and compliments. Oliver is such an inspirational character that my company conceived and started production of a documentary film about him. We had begun principal photography only days before his arrest, which came as a shocking surprise. The premise of the documentary was an inspirational, extraordinary artist following their dream and heavily involved in their community. What better person to use as a subject than Oliver? I continue to stand by him even after knowing he made these mistakes. I believe a person is not defined by the worst thing they have done.

I appreciate you taking the time to read this letter and trust that your fair judgement will allow Oliver the opportunity to learn and grow from his mistakes and to continue sharing his gifts with the world.

The Honorable Judge Kaplan
c/o Susan Walsh, Esq.

Dear Judge Kaplan,

My name is Judy Parcels. I am a 74 year old senior citizen. I was probably Oliver Sohngen's oldest voice student. I was studying with him for about a year, from the summer of 2016 to May 2017 at his music school, The Long Island City Academy of Music. I am a retired substitute teacher from the New York City School System, where I served for 27 years. I have a B.A. in Elementary Education and an M.S. in Early Childhood Education. My N.Y. State licenses are in Elementary Education and Secondary School English Language Arts.

I am aware that Oliver Sohngen has been convicted of sex crimes and I am asking for leniency when he goes to sentencing. This request is being made because of the kind of person I know Oliver to be.

I am an amateur singer with two senior citizen groups who sing at nursing homes, senior centers, assisted living residences, synagogues and YMHAs. Recently I joined a large classical chorus with members of all ages. Music is my passion in life. I arrived at this very late in life, about 10 years ago, when I began with an off-off Broadway theatre group who put on one show a year with seniors of the Queens Community in Astoria, N.Y. I was told I am a really good singer and I wanted to improve and looked for a voice coach, and found Oliver's school listed in a local newspaper.

From the beginning of our relationship, Oliver and I got along extremely well. He inspired and encouraged me, letting me know that my voice was not only good but something outstanding – a contralto with an operatic voice who could have been a remarkable opera singer if I had started at an earlier age. He didn't show any discrimination towards me concerning my age, as is often the case where senior citizens are concerned. He treated me on an equal basis with all of the younger people at the school.

Oliver was the first person in my entire life who gave me support and encouragement. I came from a working-class family which had a lot of problems and I was overlooked and neglected as a child and young person. Under Oliver's instruction, my voice improved tremendously within a very short period of time and I can sing beautifully, thanks to him. At a recital he gave at his studio, he introduced me to two young men, probably in their late 20s, one a tenor and the other a bass. Their voices were marvelous, and Oliver told me he was training both of them for professional careers. The enthusiasm and hope he had for them was so sincere and truly incredible. Oliver gave his heart and soul to his work. He is an extremely talented man. He gives to the world not only his own wonderful voice and talent, but his whole-hearted and unique dedication to his students. Oliver is an outstanding teacher and I can attest to this, having been in the field of Education myself. As a substitute teacher, I have been in many schools and classrooms throughout my career and I know that Oliver is exceptional.

To remove Oliver Sohngen from society and deny his dedicated contribution to aspiring musical artists would be a great loss of someone who truly has something special to offer.

Respectfully,

Dear Judge,

My name is Aaron and I am 18 years old. I first met Oliver Sohngen or my stepfather in 2005 when I was living in Barbados with my grandparents and my mom, Amanda Andres, was living in the US. My biological dad was never involved in my life because he has schizophrenia and he used drugs.

Oliver came with my mom to Barbados and he was different from me because in Barbados they aren't a lot of Caucasian people in the country. He was very nice to me and he started teaching me piano.

The next time he came to Barbados was when I was 7 and my sister was born in America-- this time was very good because we had fun and I got to see my new sister. I went to the beach with him, my sister and my mom, we had a lot of fun and it was all great. I finally had a family. Before he left he gave me a small keyboard and a book to practice piano with. I learned a couple songs.

The next year, I left Barbados and moved to America to live with my mother, sister and Oliver and I started to call him Dad because my sister called him Dad. He would also tell everyone that I was his son.

In the living room of our apartment, he taught other kids and adults to sing and in his free time he taught me to play the piano. He was the one who took me to school and picked me up, because my mom was taking care of my sister.

Eventually he started volunteering at my public elementary school to do a choir and it was successful. We sang in many performances for the school. He was also such a good teacher that he was chosen to be in an ad for the NYC government called "Music is my Blank." This was when I was 9 years old and I was in the ad too. I played the piano and sang. I was very proud to be doing this with my dad.

After we moved from the first apartment he opened the Long Island City Academy of Music and I was always there throughout my whole high school education. I would be there watching my sister or learning piano or drums, we would have a lot of fun with our dad-- watching him sing or him teaching me or my sister to sing, even though he was very busy.

I remember going on many family road trips. We went to Florida a lot to visit my other family and we had a great time. I remember one road trip we even rescued a dog and we took care of it and took it to an adoption center. He loves animals a lot and he is very caring to them and taught me and my sister how to take care of our pets.

Even though my mom and dad separated, my dad would always take my sister and I out to eat at restaurants in the neighborhood or ice skating or to the movies. There was never a bad moment with him, me and my sister. We were always happy. Even for the holidays when he would have to work, he would still make sure to get us gifts, come see us or take us out to eat or whatever he could at the end of the day.

When I was in high school, I fell on sports day and injured my leg. My mom couldn't make it and my dad cancelled his work to come and get me and take me to the hospital and he stayed with me and brought me back home.

For him singing and work was second to us, although it is something he loves to do. He takes singing seriously and built a business off of something he used to do part time in the living room of our one bedroom apartment.

He also did sets for all sorts of plays and he made all the sets himself. He is such a smart person. He is also a very good singer and plays many instruments. We have been to many places to see him perform.

[REDACTED]

I am sad that my dad was not able to attend my high school graduation because he was arrested but maybe he can come to my college graduation. He also couldn't attend my sister's middle school graduation. He's missing a lot of important moments in our lives and we can never get the time back.

With him gone our family is going through a lot of stress and it's as though a part of us is missing because he was always here and we miss him a lot. We depended on him in many ways. Everything is different and there is a lot of burden on my mom and we worry about what will happen.

[REDACTED] I saw my Dad's face on the television and they said he was accused of crimes against minors. I couldn't believe that he was accused of these things. But then later, my Dad admitted that he did some of these things. It was hard for me to accept. I worried about my mom and sister and if kids would bully my sister. I talked to my mom and we understand that people make mistakes-- that's how we learn.

I think my dad was brave to say that he made a mistake and that he's very sorry for what he did. I know what it's like to make a mistake and what it's like to learn from it and take a different path. I wish I was that brave-- when I had my problems, I denied that I had a problem and I said that I didn't need help. But my dad admitted to his problem and wants you to HELP him to be a better person and to make up for what he did. Maybe there is a program that my Dad can complete, like I did, and he can come back to us a better person.

My dad and family supported me when I had my issues [REDACTED] and I would like to support my dad so that he can get past this problem.

Please give him another chance. He's has done many good things for us and other people and he's sorry for what he did.

Missing my Dad.

Honored Judge,

My name is Ardian Rrukiqi and I am the brother in law of Oliver.

I am 42 years old and married to Oliver's sister Gloria since 1999. We have a 13 year old daughter.

I was born in Kosovo, but I emigrated already at the young age of 16 to Germany. As far as my profession, I am the shift supervisor at the well known company by the name of Schaeffler, I supervise 15 people in that capacity.

This year I did some further training as team leader.

I know Oliver for a very long time, unfortunately we don't see each other very often. I have rarely encountered anybody as nice as Oliver !

This person would never intentionally inflict harm or hurt anybody. Because of my work I have a lot of experience and knowledge about peoples character and behavior, in this case I am only able to give positive references about Oliver !!

He is a superior family guy, the way he takes care of his daughter is deeply touching.

When he came for a visit last year in August, I had a very long and intensive conversation with him. You can really talk to him about anything and everything !

Each time he came for a visit to Germany we would of course spend time together.

In the event that he really did something improper, I am certain that he regrets it deeply and sincerely !

He is not an evil person.

I hope that I will be able to see him very soon, and that I will have a great chat with him again, as always.

I am going to miss that opportunity in his absence.

I hope you will be able to recognize the good human being in Oliver that he really is ! You can only witness the things he has presumably done, but that is not who he is ! Maybe he is not quite in a good condition emotionally.

Hoping that his sentence and punishment doesn't turn out to be too severe, that kind of a judgement would be dire for his family !

With best regards,

Ardian Rruqiqi

My name is Claude Diallo. I am a Swiss citizen and German is my native language. I came to know Oliver in early 2009 when I graduated from Queens College and started my first job in New York City on my OPT (Optional Practical Training). It was due to Oliver Söhngens help, that I received my first job at the Queens Music School in Flushing, Queens. Oliver used to be a bass teacher and vocal coach at that school. When I walked into the school to ask if it might be possible for me to work there, Oliver happened to be there and was very helpful to assist me with the interview procedures and thanks to his suggestions and recommendations I received my first teaching job in America. Soon we realized that we both speak German and that he is from Konstanz, Germany, while I am from St. Gallen, Switzerland. Technically a 30 min drive from each other. We became more than just work colleagues, we became friends.

The same year, in October 2009, Oliver found out that I was looking for an apartment with my then girlfriend Angela Wang. He was very helpful and told us, that the apartment next door where he lives is becoming vacant and that I should apply for it. I did and we became neighbors since November 2009 until today. I still rent this apartment today and until shortly Oliver was my neighbor. During our time as neighbors we had a very good relationship and I felt, that this apartment building in which we lived had a special charm due to Oliver's family's presence. His life partner Amanda with their [REDACTED] and their son Aaron soon became friends of ours and it was nice to have them around in the building as they added some spice to the neighborhood. They were special. Not usual people, but special to the community.

Funnily Oliver then opened his own school the L.I.C Music Academy and I was running a couple of after school programs run by the Piano School of New York City. I hired Oliver as a teacher for this school and he did an excellent job with the kids of ages between 3 - 9 years old. The goal was to teach group piano classes and Oliver worked for this company between 2009 until 2011. Meanwhile, Oliver hired me to work for his own school. During that time (2009 - 2011), I could not assert any special issues or problems with Oliver and felt that he was a normal human being doing what he knows best and trying to help other people by sharing his knowledge of music and live a normal life.

I kindly ask you to review your sentence and give Mr. Söhngen a second chance and to be able to get back to normal life after the possibility to have been treated by specialists that could help him, rather than destroy him. Thank you for your time and efforts for reading this letter. The people that knew Oliver before he committed his crime would be thankful about your reconsideration and final decision. This crime needs to be punished, no doubt, but where there is hope, there should be mercy.

Best Wishes Claude Diallo
